FLORIDA HOUSE
On Capitol Hill

"Where is Florida's embassy?"

asked one of Rhea and Lawton Chiles' children when visiting Washington, D.C. After explaining states did not have embassies, Mrs. Chiles could not get the idea out of her head that Floridians needed a place to step away from a hectic day while in the nation's capital.

Since 1973 Florida House on Capitol Hill has welcomed thousands of Floridians visiting on school trips, vacation or business. And for more than 40 years the Central Florida Council has built a dedicated group of citizens committed to the Florida House mission of promoting arts and culture, business, education and hospitality. Plan a visit to your embassy this year, enjoy a glass of cold Florida orange juice, take in the iconic view of the Capitol Dome and celebrate the accomplishments of your support.

Arts & Culture

This beautiful Florida landscape was donated to Florida House by the artist, C. Ford Riley, Jr., and his wife, Elizabeth, a Florida House trustee.

We are proud to hang this in the foyer at Florida House and add it to our art collection.

Education

School groups from around the state frequently visit Florida House. They not only learn something about our state, but about the work in the two branches of government visible from our windows - the Supreme Court and the U.S. Capitol.

Business

Each year we welcome Florida associations and companies to Washington as they conduct business in the nation's capital. Our convenient location makes it easy for them to host meetings, fly-ins and receptions at Florida House.

Hospitality

Over 1000 bottles of orange juice from Florida's Natural were given to visitors at our special OJ stand. These interns from Senator Bill Nelson's office joined several Congressional members in sharing our state's bounty.
